houses in the North, doing business with the South, who have been visiting New Orleans for many years past, and at present, and are thoroughly conversant with the political feelings of the people of this section, wish to express our opinion, at this critical juncture Visiting New Orleans at a season when the city is usually full of activity and life, we find every channel of trade paralyzed, the State House occupied by troops, the officers of the State threatened and intimidated, and the people cast into the deepest gloom by the arbitrary usurpation of power and place, by political adventurers, backed by a United States Judge, who has called in the assistance of United States troops to execute his decrees. After an election, which we believe to have been conducted as fairly and honestly as any in which the American people ever participated, finding themselves beaten by a large majority of the votes of the citizens of this city and State, this unscrupulous and irresponsible body of men have resorted to trickery and violence to defeat the execution of the will of the people, as thus expressed. Believing this action the greatest outrage ever attempted to be carried out in our country, and one which tends directly to the overthrow of the liberties of the people, and to destroying the power and sacredness of the ballot-box, we hereby enter our solemn protest against the high-handed action, and appeal to our fellow-citizens of the North to unite in protesting to Congress and the President, to the end that the legally elected officers of the State may be installed in office, and the people of the community supported in their efforts to exercise the right of franchise, that they may redeem their State from the bankruptcy and ruin with which it is now threat-

> REVIEW OF THE

WILMINGTON MARKETS.

FOR THE WEEK ENDING THURSDAY. February 6, 1873.

THE WEEK .- Trade in a wholesale way has fallen off materially during Baltimore-Steamship Rebecca the past week, and the market for many leading staples of domestic production, as well as foreign importation, has become dull, with some depression, if not decline in prices. The most important exceptions to this statement have been principally in Spirits Tur. pentine and Rosins. The demand for groceries has been only fair, though the market for staples is firm. Corn has shown a large movement, owing to the liberal receipt. The money market continues to be very stringent. The changes in prices of the leading articles and special features of the week ending to-day, are reviewed as
